

SAVOIA EXCELSIOR PALACE

TRIESTE

Majestic allure in Trieste

The Savoia Excelsior Palace is a hotel of timeless charm that immediately evokes all the Mitteleuropean's splendor. It is not a coincidence that, when it opened in 1911, it was acclaimed as "the most important and luxurious hotel in the Austro-Hungarian Empire".

The hotel remains an emblem of the majesty and peerless style that distinguished the first grand hotels at the end of the 19th century. A towering presence on the historic seafront, with an impressive white façade gazing over the endless view of the Gulf of Trieste, the hotel makes an unforgettable first impression. But inside is where the magic really begins.

Location

From its position on the historic waterfront, Riva del Mandracchio, the Savoia Excelsior Palace offers stunning panoramic views over the Gulf of Trieste.

The bustling city center, with its historic cafés, monuments, and wealth of landmarks, is close by. The hotel is the ideal place to start exploring the city, its fascinating blend of artistic and cultural influences – the baroque churches, austere synagogues, and impressive Habsburg-era neoclassical palazzi – and its unmistakable Mitteleuropean and bohemian moods.
