

ELISABETTA FABRI
President and CEO of Starhotels

Florentine, mother of twins, Elisabetta Fabri lived between Florence, Rome, Washington and New York, where in the Nineties she personally managed The Michelangelo, the first hotel opened abroad by Starhotels.

After her graduation from the Ecole Hôtelière de Lausanne, she earned her Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration from John Cabot University in Rome. A cosmopolitan background, combined with a long apprenticeship enabled her to develop a thorough understanding of hospitality management. In 1992, she made her official debut as an entrepreneur creating Starhotels International. In 2000 she came back to Florence permanently, where she was appointed CEO and Vice President of Starhotels SpA, of which she became President eleven years later, whilst remaining the CEO.

In 2016, Starhotels affirmed its place in the world of luxury hospitality with the acquisition of four new properties in Italy – Hotel d'Inghilterra in Rome, Helvetia & Bristol in Florence, Grand Hotel Continental in Siena and Hotel Villa Michelangelo in Vicenza – and The Franklin in London.
